Will Start Up Next Week.

Messrs. Cooke & Churchill, two of the sufferers by the Agricultural Works fire have the frame work of a building up, and the roof almost shingled, for a new sash and door factory, just over the race on the south side of the agricultural building ruins. They will not finish the building, nor even weather-board it until they get the machinery in position. They have received some of their new machinery and the remainder will be here on Monday evening, except one piece which had to be ordered from the East. They expect to get to running either on Wednesday or Thursday.

Commencement at Gervais.

On Thursday, June 28, at 7:30 p. m. the commencement exercises at St. Scholastica's convent school will take place. On the preceding Friday the pupils will be examined in their respective studies. The school has had a large and steady attendance throughout the scholastic year. A highly interesting program will be presented on the occasion.

Overrun With Thistles.

Unless the writer is greatly mistaken, there is an ordinance on the city statute books requiring all property owners to cut down thistles on their property, and the street supervisor to do the same in the public streets. The street and adjacent property, between Front and Water streets, on Union, is becoming badly grown over by thistles, and they should be attended to.

Napoleon Davis Returns.

Hon. Napoleon Davis, delegate from Oregon to the St. Louis convention, has returned. Davis among the rest of the Oregon delegation at St. Louis, was completely thunderstruck at the "result in Oregon," and it required a good deal of his spare time while there to "explain" to the hosts of the eminently faithful how it all came about.

Teas! Teas!

S. Farrar & Co. pay special attention to this important article, and keep on hand a fine line of the choicest teas. Among the many choice brands which they handle may be mentioned the Cupid brand, English breakfast, Gunpowder and Young Hyson. Give these a trial.

The Corvallis Celebration.

Light battery A., O. N. G., of Portland, will participate in the celebration of the Fourth of July at Corvallis. Five companies of the 2d regiment infantry, and probably troop A. cavalry, will also participate.

To be Deputy Sheriff.

It is said that Capt. Frank T. Wrightman, of Sublimity, is to be Sheriff Croisan's deputy. Capt. Wrightman is a staunch republican and a deserving young man, and the new sheriff could not make a better selection.

WHERE IS OREGON?

A Question for the Board of Trade to Answer.—A "Greengrocer" in Cincinnati.

The writer is in receipt of a letter from Maj. Wm. Manning, of Canyonville, this state, who with his wife and son, is on a tour of the eastern states. The letter is written from Jonesboro, Tennessee, where they are visiting friends.

In the course of his letter he tells the following story, which, he truly says, should show to our board of trade the first question to be answered by them. While in Cincinnati, where they remained several days, they passed by the store of a greengrocer, in whose stock some large watermelons from the south attracted their attention. Stopping to enquire where the melons were from, a short chat ensued, which showed plainly that the major was not a Cincinnati, or even a resident of Ohio, and caused the inquisitive greengrocer to enquire from whence the party hailed.

"We are from Oregon," was confidently responded, when to the astonishment of the visitors to "Porkopolis," with a look as blank as a sheet of plain white paper, the aforesaid "gg" asked: "Well, Where's Oregon?"

Now it is evident that fellow was a "greengrocer" in more senses of the word than one. On being informed as to the exact segment in the earth's circumference which constituted our grand and glorious state, the aforesaid greengrocer remarked that he had been in California.

And such it is to be a great and prolific state!

This green grocer can be found about three blocks from the west end of the great suspension bridge, in Cincinnati if any one doubts his existence.

Therefore the question which must be answered by the board of trade and advertising committee, first, is, "Where is Oregon?"

A Speculation Party.

Last evening, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Gilbert entertained a number of their friends at their elegant residence on Water and Main streets, in honor of Mr. A. E. Holgate, of Dayton, W. T. The game of the evening was "speculation," and after its close, and the discussion of the usual delightful refreshments, dancing was indulged in until a late hour. There were present: Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Gilbert, Dr. and Mrs. J. N. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Rosenberg, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Mack, Mr. and Mrs. I. A. Manning, Mrs. Mattie A. Scott, Miss Maggie J. Cosper, Miss Meek, of Oakland, Cal., Miss Nettie Gist, of Portland, Or., Misses Lena Breyman, Boise, Gilbert, Church, Van Wagner, Minnie Breyman, Colwell, and Messrs. A. E. Holgate, R. Prael, of Portland, R. P. Boise, Jr., H. S. Jordan, C. A. Piper, F. S. Dearborn, H. L. Keller, E. L. L. Johnson and Chas. Cosper.

Miss Parrish in New York.

Says the Telegram-Herald of Grand Rapids, Mich., June 11th: "Mrs. C. W. Botsford and her niece, Miss Hallie Parrish, leave for Marion, N. Y., to-day for a month's visit. Pretty Miss Parrish has made many admirers, during her stay in this city, who will be glad to learn that she is to return with her aunt." She does not think of returning to Oregon soon, as she thinks some of studying her art in New York state for a time. She has been under the training of a very accomplished teacher, a European graduate, in Grand Rapids, and has received many complimentary notices by the press of that city.

School Exhibition.

The closing exhibition of the East Salem school was given in the spacious hall of that building last evening. About 500 visitors were present. Hon. J. T. Gregg gave the annual address, which was pleasing and appropriate, and was well received. The evening was occupied with declamatory exercises interspersed with music, all of which were well rendered, and afforded entire satisfaction. Scholars and teachers now take a rest from their arduous labors during the two hot months of summer.

PRISONER SHOT.

Guard Whitley Shoots and Kills Wm. Mansfield, a Prisoner at the Penitentiary.

This morning after the hours for work had arrived, and while the prisoners in the state penitentiary were quietly pursuing their daily duties, William Mansfield, a prisoner and a desperate character, entered the chapel from the yard, and on being asked what was wanted, declared that he wasn't going to work any longer. He was told by the guard in the chapel that he would have to go to work, that such conduct could not be allowed. Mansfield said he did not care, that he wasn't going to work, and that was all there was of it. The warden then called in Guard Whitley, who was ordered to arrest Mansfield. Mansfield stood at bay, refusing to surrender, remarking, "I'll kill you, g—d d—n you, if you touch me."

Warden Whitley then pointed his gun at Mansfield ordering him to throw up his hands, saying that he was disobeying all rules of the institution, and that his entire action was mutinous.

Mansfield said, "I know it, and don't give a g—d d—n if it is."

He was again ordered to throw up his hands, but he only dared the guard to shoot him.

After a little further deliberation, the guard steadily pointed his gun at Mansfield, who showed no signs of surrender, saw that further waiting or kindness toward Mansfield was only inimical to good order, pulled the trigger—a flash, and Mansfield dropped to the floor, dead.

News of the shooting was immediately sent to Sheriff Minto and Justice O'Donald and the latter summoned a jury, and went out to investigate the case. At this hour they have not returned.

Mansfield was the worst character confined in the prison, probably, and was one of the leaders in the famous prison break of 1883. He was indicted then for murder in the first degree, along with one Smith, another of the leaders of that break, but they saved themselves on a flaw in the papers, or something, in court. The case was tested against Smith, and on the failure to convict him, the case against Mansfield was not prosecuted.

He has murdered several persons in Eastern Oregon, and when searched this morning, after being killed, a long butcher knife was found in his right sleeve. It is evident now, as it was to the guard then, it was either the life of the prisoner had to be taken, or he would have killed a guard.

Whitley, the guard who killed the prisoner, is a Polk county man, and his father and brother were killed by Til Glaze, at Dallas, in 1878. Every person who lived here at that time remembers this famous shooting, and will readily recall the son who is now the guard at the penitentiary.

Clinging to the Last.

The virus of rheumatism often remains in the system through life, when it does not cut the thread of existence suddenly, as it is always liable to do by attacking the heart. Ere the grip of this tenacious disease tightens, it should be unlocked by that beneficent liberator from disease, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which will free the sufferer at the outset from subsequent pain and danger. No purer or more agreeable blood depurant exists, as multitudes of the rheumatic and neuragic have ascertained by certified experience. It is through the medium of a regular action of the kidneys and bladder that an outlet is afforded for impurities which beget not only rheumatism, but gouty ailments, and dropsical effusions. To these organs the Bitters gives an impulse, never verging on the bounds of irritation, but sufficiently vigorous to cause them and the bowels to perform their functions with clock-like precision. Use it also for dyspepsia, biliousness, fever and ague and debility.
